Vincent van Gogh

Dutch (1853-1890)

Vincent Willem van Gogh (Dutch: [ˈvɪnsənt ˈvɔləm vɑŋ ˈɣɔx] (listen)[note 1] 30 March 1853 – 29 July 1890) was a Dutch post-Impressionist painter whose work, notable for its rough beauty, emotional honesty and bold color, had a far-reaching influence on 20th-century art. After years of painful anxiety and frequent bouts of mental illness, he died aged 37 from a gunshot wound, generally accepted to be self-inflicted (although no gun was ever found).[note 2] His work was then known to only a handful...

A detailed, atmospheric rendering of a medieval town square. The scene is set on a cobblestone street. On the left, there are half-timbered buildings with dark wooden frames and light-colored plaster. A string of laundry, including various colored cloths and garments, hangs across the street from a building on the right. In the foreground on the right, there is a wooden stall or table covered with a green cloth, displaying several large, round loaves of bread and some jars. A simple wooden chair is tucked under the table. In the background, more buildings and trees are visible under a soft, hazy light, suggesting a quiet morning or late afternoon. The overall mood is peaceful and historical.
